

RULES

1. PARTICIPATION

The Contest is open to all cartoonists from all over the world and beyond.

2. THEME: Migration

The concept of emigration has existed since the first hominids learned to walk. To move around, for social reasons or just for surviving, has always foot-printed the route of our species. Since our remote African origin until today, humans have explored the whole planet forming a wide range of settlements, apparently different, but with the same necessities. Nowadays, for some countries of the so called first world, immigration is contemplated almost like a plague: solid metal walls have been built to protect their borders and tough strict control systems are used in their customs. However, migration can't be stopped and human beings, the direct descendents of hominids that knew no frontiers, will continue to move around the world.
